Idaho’s Historic Capitol Building

Construction of the Idaho State Capitol began in the summer of 1905. The central section was completed in 1912, and construction of the east and west wings began in 1919. The entire Capitol was completed by the end of 1920.

Nearly 100 years and extensive use have taken their toll on this treasured monument. Numerous structural, safety and aesthetic repairs are needed to maintain its historic character. In some cases, major restoration is required due to the extent of deterioration. Areas of concern include exterior building assemblies, interior finish systems, mechanical systems, electrical systems and infrastructure.

The Idaho Capitol Commission has developed and is implementing a master plan for the restoration, refurbishment and preservation of the Idaho Capitol and its grounds. The restoration is being financed through a combination of sales of restoration license plates, appropriations by the Idaho Legislature, proceeds from state endowment lands and private contributions. The goal is to restore the Capitol to its original splendor.

What is the Capitol Restoration License Plate?

The Idaho Capitol Commission has selected a design rich in symbolism for a special, limited-edition license plate being sold to raise funds to help restore the Idaho State Capitol.

The unique design of the plate features a graphic of the Capitol dome, the most prominent aspect of the building. It includes a procession of stars that, like the 43 located on the interior ceiling of the actual dome, represent Idaho’s statehood. And finally, the stars morph into birds that signify Idaho’s official bird, the mountain bluebird.
